Teaching and Creation of Educational Materials

Higher Education

Experimental Psychology: Child Development (PSY 335), “introduces [students to] basic findings and techniques in the study of developmental psychology... [Reviews] all phases of research including research design, ethics, data collection, analysis, and presentation, with a specific focus on current methods used to study the psychological development of children. In the laboratory, students ... design and complete group research projects illustrative of the major topics covered, culminating in APA-style research papers.” (22 students, College of Staten Island, 2018).

History and Systems of Psychology (PSY 352), in-depth coverage of major historical developments in psychology and a review of the contemporary fields they inform—including structuralism, functionalism, psychoanalysis, behaviorism, and Gestalt psychology—and future directions for the fields (36 students, College of Staten Island, 2017).

[Introduction to] Psychology (PSY 100), a “study of the important facts and theories concerning human behavior and its motivation.” Covering various topics in psychology “related to major trends in recent cultural history and to current social and moral issues” (50 students, College of Staten Island, 2017).

Educational Research (EDD 630 and EDD 631), a two-semester graduate course sequence. The sequence prepares graduate education students (both those seeking initial and professional teaching certification) with the basics of conducting, understanding, and applying research to classroom and education-related practice. Taught in both hybrid (at least half online) and traditional formats (16 – 22 students, College of Staten Island, 2008 – present).

Behavior and Motivation (PSYC 3320), covering “[t]heory and research involving the relationships between motivation and emotion to learning theory, social behavior, personality, and development” (50 – 63 students, The University of Texas at Arlington, 2001 – 2002).

Elementary Statistical Analysis (MATH 1308/PSYC 1310), covering the important foundation of descriptive statistics, relationships between variables, interpretation of data and graphs, rudiments of probability, elementary statistical models, hypothesis testing, inference, and estimation (57 – 89 students, The University of Texas at Arlington, 2001 – 2002).

Experimental Design (PSYC 2442), addressing “theoretical and practical approaches to research methodology, statistical analyses and techniques of report research.” Co-designed lectures and content for lecture and laboratory sections, oversaw laboratory sections, and taught lecture section for undergraduate course (18 – 33 students, The University of Texas at Arlington, 1999 – 2001).

Introductory Psychology (PSYC 1315), an undergraduate course (5 – 89 students, The University of Texas at Arlington, 1998 – 2001).

Experimental Analysis of Behavior (PSYC 2310): Assistant-taught and tended animals for laboratory (23 – 27 students, The University of Texas at Arlington, 1996 – 1997).

Professionals and the General Public

Co-designer of approximately 120 lessons and activities (and teacher of about 40 of these) integrating animals and nature into social studies, math, science, language arts, and arts instruction for students aged 5 – 16 in public schools in Chicago, Dallas, New York City, and Philadelphia; most subsequently published and/or made available online (ASPCA, 2002 – 2006).

Co-designer of project-based upper-elementary curriculum for humane education in partnership with the Staten Island Children’s Museum (ASPCA, 2004 – 2005).

Kindergarten Through Twelfth Grade

Project leader for The Compassionate Curriculum which integrates humane education into grades K – 8 through learner-centered classroom, out-of-class, and service learning projects.

Project leader for partnership with Scholastic on Clifford the Big Red Dog lessons and related DVD and poster (2005 – 2006).

Lead designer for Strawberry Shortcake pet care PSA and related poster and online games (previously available online at <http://www.animaland.org/asp/games/shortcake/index.asp>) (2005).

Designer and teacher of in-service, professional development workshop for New York City School District; conducted with about 300 elementary teachers in total (ASPCA, 2004 – 2005).

Designer and co-teacher of 15-unit, in-service, professional development curriculum integrating humane education into elementary science curricula. Presented for entire Dallas Independent School District (ASPCA, 2004).

Co-designer of project-based curriculum for Girl Scout Scholars programs in New York City (ASPCA, 2003 – 2005).

Designed and implemented student-centered, service-learning program to nurture prosocial behavior using self-efficacy- and resilience-based practices with groups of at-risk teens through Dallas Boys & Girls Clubs (Arlington, Texas, 2001 – 2002).

Prepared young adults for the General Equivalency Degree; my students obtained the center’s highest pass rates (YMCA, Arlington, Texas, 2000 – 2002).

Summer Science Institute: Experimental Psychology; Chosen among all psychology graduate students to design and teach this high-profile program to expose exceptional middle and high school students to psychology in general and at UTA in particular. The program focused on hands-on learning (The University of Texas at Arlington, 2001).

Taught SAT and PSAT preparation in various high schools to 9th to 12th grade classes (2000 – 2001, between 5 and 44 students per class); tutored pre-algebra, algebra, and geometry to various high school students (2000 – 2001, between 1 and 4 per group), the Teaching Company, Arlington, Texas.

Tutored literacy one-on-one (Harrisburg, Penn., May, 1993 – August 1993).

Tutored preparation for the General Equivalency Degree (Harrisburg, Penn., June 1992 – November 1994).

Assistant teacher of English as a Second Language: Instructed classes of beginner to intermediate levels (Catholic Charities, Harrisburg, Penn., June 1991 – November 1991).

Grants and Funding

Given success of previous Writing Across the Curriculum project, immediately below, was proffered an unprecedented invitation to further develop and expand the project both in scope and evaluative rigor through a second $35,000 grant (2012 – 2013).

Led interdisciplinary team awarded $35,000 to implement a Writing Across the Curriculum grant to create and assess a research-based program to support undergraduate student development (2011 – 2012).

Samuels, W. E. (2005). Inside an Animal Shelter education program, awarded $50,000 grant from the Peter Jay Sharp Foundation, teaches animal care through interactive visits to the ASPCA's shelter facility $60,000 in 2002 from the Kenneth A. Scott Charitable Trust for the creation of Living science: Humane, student-inquiry science projects for middle and high schools (see Books, above).

Research Projects

Current Research Projects

Lead investigator, evaluation of humane education program conducted with over 1,000 students of migrant families and “left-behind” children in rural China (2017 – 2018).

Lead investigator, role of executive functioning on academic success among New York City public elementary school students (2011 – present).

Co-investigator, modern and traditional psychometric properties of instruments and efficiency of psychometric statistics (2008 – present).

Completed Research Projects

Lead investigator, evaluation of humane education program conducted with over 2,000 students in Dalian, Xiamen, Guang Dong, and Xin Jiang Province, People's Republic of China (2014 – 2017).
